“PRESIDENT’S VOLUNTEER SERVICE AWARD” winner

VINAHF is very pleased to share with all supporters a good news. Our VINAHF president, Mr. Khiet Thanh Nguyen, was just awarded another President’s Volunteer Service Award to recognize his outstanding and sustained community service.

Mr. Nguyen was honored by the President of the United States with the Golden level President’s Volunteer Service Award in April 2015. This is three times in a row. Last 2 years, he received the Silver Award (2014) , and the Golden Award (2013) - All awards were nominated by AT&T company as his employer.

This is a prestigious national award to recognize Americans who inspire others to engage in volunteer service, and our VINAHF President - Khiet T Nguyen - is well deserved for his dedication, and exemplary volunteer service for the communities in United States, as well as his humanitarian and philanthropic work in Vietnam.

More information about this award is at:

Mr. Nguyen began his career with AT&T at the world-renowned Bell Labs in 1992, and he is still working for AT&T at the Research & Development Center in New Jersey. In three consecutive years, AT&T has nominated him to President’s Council on Service and Civic Participation for this award, at the Gold level (2013, 2015) , Silver level (2014), therefore AT&T is also proud to recognize Mr. Khiet Nguyen, along with other award recipients in the print edition of USA Today, and on the AT&T website.

Let’s offer our warmest congratulations to Mr. Nguyen, and to our VINAHF with the inspiration to contribute to our communities through volunteer service, and to make volunteer service a meaningful part of our lives.
